

School stars eye engineering

By Fred Turyakira

Two former pupils of Uganda Martyrs Primary School in Mbarara city, who excelled in last year's Primary Leaving Examinations, aspire to become engineers.

Both Blaise Ainomugisha from Nyandozo village, Bumbaire parish in Bushenyi district and Emmanuel Rukundo from Kyanamira in Kabale district, scored an impressive aggregate 5.

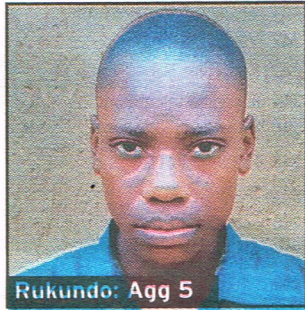

Interestingly, both are first-born children in their families and share the ambition of becoming engineers, according to their parents, who spoke to New Vision.

Rukundo's father, Bernard Natukunda, a secondary school teacher at St Mary's College Rushorozu, expressed pride in his son's performance and said it brings him closer to achieving his dream of becoming a civil engineer.

Christopher Tukundane, Ainomugisha's father and a farmer, said he was not surprised by his son's achievement.
